DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 6-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Smith (USPN D241958) in view of Huffman (USPN 5215307) and Piccini (USPN 4378113) further in view of Spivey (USPN 4272077).

Regarding claims 1 and 10-14, Smith discloses a weight exercise device comprising a handle shaped like a grip portion of a sport implement having a first and second ends and a weight positioned at the second end of the handle (See Entire Document). Koszalinski does not disclose the length of the device, the size of the handle, or how the weight is attached to the handle. Huffman discloses an exercise device for strengthening muscles comprising a handle and a weight at the end of the handles wherein the device is of a length of 15 to 30 inches (See Summary of the Invention). Huffman also notes that the weights on the ends of the handle may be offset such that one end of the handle weighs more than the other end of the handle. Such effect would move the location of the center of gravity anywhere from the center of the device to the ends of the device. One having ordinary skill in the art would have found it obvious to have the device of the above lengths, especially 15 inches, in order to vary the location of the center of gravity of the device. Huffman notes that the grips of a particular sport implement may be used such as in golf, baseball, tennis, etc. If in doubt, Piccini discloses a device for conditioning the forearms wherein the device comprises a handle and a weighted end and is approximately the length of a human forearm (14 inches). One having ordinary skill in the art would have found it obvious to have the device of Smith to be about 14 inches, as taught by Piccini in order to condition the forearms. Spivey discloses a handle for a golf club in which the handle is about 30% larger than a standard golf grip (See Figure 5). One having ordinary skill in the art would have found it obvious to increase the size of the grip in order to improve jerks or yipes, or in other words, improve the gripping of the implement. It should be noted that the devices of Huffman and Piccini all can be used to condition the forearms for various sports.

Regarding claim 6, Huffman notes that the device has a length of 15 to 30 inches and also notes that the length of the weights may vary. One having ordinary skill in the art would have found it obvious to have any length for the handle and weight so long as the device strengthens the arm. Further Piccini discloses the device being 14 inches wherein it is shown that the handle only accounts for about 1/3 of the entire length of the device. One having ordinary skill in the art would have found it obvious to have any length for the handle and weight so long as the device strengthens the arm

Regarding claim 7, Huffman implies that the device weighs more than the hand-held implement used in the sport (See Background of the invention).

Regarding claims 8 and 9, Huffman discloses the handles having an externally thread portion and the weight having an internally thread socket (See Figure 10).

Art Unit: 3711

Claims 4 and 5 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the prior art applied in claim 1 above in view of Hart (USPN 6379261).

Regarding claims 4 and 5, the prior art applied to claim 1 above does not disclose the size of the weight. Hart discloses a swing trainer having a handle and weight wherein the weight has a length of 1.5 to 4 inches and a diameter of 1.25 in (See Column 10, lines 30 through 39). Hart notes that the device is of an adequate size to be used indoors or outdoors. One having ordinary skill in the art would have found it obvious to have the weight of the prior art, applied to claim 1, to be less than 4 inches in length and diameter, as taught by Hart, in order to give the device an adequate size to be used indoors or outdoors.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-18 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
